THE CANADIAN RECIPROCITY TREATY—THE SECRETA-BY OF THE TREASURY TO BE APPEALED TO FOR A MORE LIBERAL INTERPRETATION OF THE RECIPRO-CITY TREATY—STEAM ON THE CANALS, ETC.
The Chamber of Commerce held a special meeting on Thursday, P. Perit, President, in the chair, and J. Smith

Homans, Secretary pro tem. The committee appointed to report upon the working of ne Canadian Reciprocity treaty submitted majority and ninority reports, the latter of which, presented by Royal Phelps, was finally adopted by the Chamber. It is as fol-

And the following is an extract from the schedule referred to—
"Grain, flour and breadsinfls of all kinds."
Your committee is aware that a great many "Treasury circulars" have been issued by each of the aforementioned Scere taries of the Treasury some for the purpose of guiding the different Collectors in carrying the treaty into effect, and others for merely statistical purpose—and it is quite possible that some misunderstanding in regard to the object of these circulars may have brought about the size of things which our Canadian friend so justly complains of. But be this as it may, the working of the treaty is so pisin that, taken in connection with the statement of the Hon. Mr. Gothrie in the presence of this Chamber, your committee confidently believe that the Secretary of the Treasury will, when the whole subject is fairly laid before him, issue instructions permitting the introduction of Canadian flour duty free, even though made from American whesi.

Your Committee look upon the Reciprocity treaty with Canada as one of the most important commercial treaties ever made by our government. The following statistics, taken from official documents, will give the Chamber some idea of the enormous increase in the trade of the two countries since the in operation.—

But its political effects are of more importance still. Commerce and free trade, those great elements of friendship and sympathy, have done their work, and instead of burning and eighbority regard.

The following extract from a communication from the Board of Trade of Cieveland to this Chamber, shows the sentiments entertained of it by our follow merchants retiding on the lakes:—

Commercial men on the lakes, who word the sentiments thereof, when of the growta or production of either of the provinces named in said proclamation, are to be admitted to free early, when imported into the United States from such province."

It is self-evident, from the quotation I have given, that the administration which negotiated the treaty, and which may readily be supposed to have been familiar in detail, with the intentions of the scoretary of State, who was one of the negotiators who framed it, really intended that such flour should come in free of duty. This view finds some confirmation in the fact that the Canadian government charges no duty on such flour. All of which is respectfully submitted.

Minority Committee of the Chamber of Commerce Resolved, That this Chamber would view with deep concern say action on the part of our government which might have a tendency to impair the benefits which have accrued to the commerce of this city and State from the working of the feedprocily treaty, or which might endanger, by retaination on the part of Canada, its future accurate, as a copy of this report, and of the letter of the Hoo. Win. Hamilton Merritt, with the expression on the part of the Chamber of a hope that he may be induced to give to the great principle of free trade the benefit of any doubt arising from the peculiar wording of any clause of the Reciprocily treaty.

A long debate was induiged in with regard to this report, which developed the fact that the Chamber was all but unanimously in favor of the utmost freedom of trade between Canada and this country. Among the merchanis who participated in the debate were James to Peyster Ogden, David Ogden, Caleb Barstow, Royal Phelps, George Ogdyke, Charles II. Marshall, P. Perit, Mr. Bodge and others. It was utged that much dissatisfaction existed all along the frontier at the interpretation put on the treaty by Mr. Cobb's officials, for it was not believed that he endorsed their action. A number of articles which the Canadians admitted free were charged a duty by the Castom House officials on the Americ Conceinso, Member of Assembly elect from this city, read an claborate document on the American and Canadian Canais, and the influence they have extend upon the prosperity of this city and State. It was full of statistics of an interesting character, but its great length, and the pressure of other matter, compels us to omit its publication to day.

The report of the committee was accepted, and the Chamber adjourned.

People.
The following address was read by Mr. John Comer ford, on behalf of the committee, at the Taxpayers' meeting, held on Tuesday evening last, at the Academy of

That, in accordance with the intention of the Legislature, in accordance with the intensity of the legisla-ture, in separating the municipal from the State election, to afford the people of this locality the privilege of cor-recting and reforming certain abuses, we feel that we are placed in a position to exercise a right which, if properly used, will lead to the extirpation of the increasing evils used, will lead to the extirpation of the increasing evits with which we are visited. Previous to the grant thus rendered, our citizens complained that it was wrong to mingle the principles of State and national politics with the question of our local grievances. Having obtained this release, we now find ourselves at liberty to carry out the purposes for which this privilege has been extended. In the demand for the interposition of legislative action, it is evident that some definite purpose was to be executed. From the doings of our representatives at Albany, it is not to be supposed that they were controlled by the opinion that the people of this city would continue to remain subject to the management of the different political parties that have so repeatedly deceived them. In dissolving any existing protext for interminging questions of national policy with those of our municipal transactions, the propounders of the dissolution may have entertained the idea that the effect of the distinction would instigate each of the political parces de class of persons, from whom our citizens would be do make a judicious and beneficial selection. If such were the actuating motives which governed these men in the alteration, we have only to say that the result of our experience goes to show that we have not as yet realized the dawn of the expected deliverance that such change contemplated. This having been the course of the different parties in not preparing to relieve us from the misconduct and dishonesty of the agents whom they have abused the confidence of the people, where or from whence are we to expect restitution for past suffering or protection from the infliction of a greater amount of evil? If we are worthy of estimating the advantage which the Legislature has conceded in placing within our grasp the opportunity of organizing to resist the acts of confidence donspirators, let us show that we are capable of appreciating the gift by which we are allowed the means to carry through the execution of our wishes.

By the exercise of the crimes which have been perpe that we are capable of appreciating the gift by which we are allowed the means to carry through the execution of our wishes.

By the exercise of the crimes which have been perpetrated against the rights of property, and the utilimited exactions that have been forced from the carnings of the laborer, we must see that in a strife of this kind there can be but two parties, uanely, the "taxpayers" and the "tax consumers." In such a cause there can be no material for conflict unless an element may be brought into the field which shall be gathered from among those who have been the originators and abettors of the foul practices of corruption and extortion.

In the absence of party issues there can be no justifiable pretext for an exhibition of the effects of party organization.

There is but one contingency that may arise which will admit of a call for the interference of others than "tax consumers" at our municipal election, and this is when those who make up the "taxpayers" ticket shall fail to present candidates who have the attributes of capacity and honesty for the support of the people.

As it is clearly shown that the action of our citizens in their municipal affairs was intended to be confined or himited to this one purpose, we cannot see why the machinery of party should be put in motion to place in no mination certain candidates, for the purpose of rewarding them for the services which they may have rendered in assisting to carry through the election of State or national representatives.

If we desire free action in the management of the affairs of this great metropolis, we must condemn the process and discard the party that shall bereafter attempt to bring either State or national influences to bear upon the selection of the persons tojwhom we entrust the responsibility of discharging the functions of our domestic legislation. In looking at the position and extent of the power given, we have the possession of every desirable material to insure a reformation of the evits against which we look for the respon will be shortly followed by commotion and anarchy. To avoid the cifects of such a calamity is a duty, the obligation of a course of this kind, is an additional to be the advanced of the control of the kind, is an additional to the control of the kind, is an additional to the control of the control of the kind, is an additional to the control of a course of this kind, is an additional to the control of an additional to the control of the department has been touched by the foul traces of corruption, we must draw the irresistible conclusion that the pervading process of depleting the public coffers has proceeded from the effects of an organized system. That this is the case, do we not know some of the parties who have perseveringly travelled through dark years of accummulating wickedness to absorb and divide with their trained cohorts the public income obtained from increasing taxation? In the spotted catalogue of these transgressors against the sacred principies of honesty and justice, is it not as humiliating as it is revolting to see them unblushingly make an exhibition of their illigotten wealth? Is it not true that many of them own and occupy costly edifices, and have them adorned with the most sumptions furniture? Do they not give entertainments that almost exect in extravagance the fabulous imaging of the ideal dreamers of fection? In the display of their persons and the equipages which carry them, they outdo in magnificence all competitors. In the array of the progress of this unheard of insolence, and the conviction that it is too deeply rooted to dread any coining storm that may touch the tendrils which nourish and give it the stability of endurance, we have the approaching indication of the downfall of the essential landmarks of public asfety. From the boldness exhibited by these men in thus braving and provoking a conflict with whatever opposition may appear to dispute their right to control the affairs of this city, we must see that they are duly sensible of the strength of the fortress they occupy. Past years of experience have instructed them to believe that the agency of vigilance is an extinct if not fogotten axiom, when applied to the people of this locality. That they have properly estimated the benefit of the advantages which such deduction inspires cannot be disputed. That it can be otherwise with these men is unreasonable, when they know that they have been permisted to proceed, step by step, to the possession of wealth by t

By such means, and through these designs carried out, the whole strength of a great party has been made to subserve the interests of the plotters who have thrived at the expense of our injured community. How long, too, may we ask, will it be before the members of the respective political parties will realize that each of them has been used in a lesser degree as the channel through which the agents of corruption have waded to share in the profits and infamy of the system we condenn?

Having thus glanced at the causes which have produced the oppressive burdens by which we are afflicted, your committee are under the impression that the people are prepared to go with them in the determination to trace out a line whereon to establish a stopping place. After years of patient and disappointed expectation that a reformation in existing abuses would be effected, we are satisfied that no change will occur unless the great mass of our citizens shall simultaneously move to execute that which they have fruitlessly waited for from the hands of politicians and parties. If, like us, fellow-citizens, you intend to retrieve the character of our city, in selecting substantial, honest and capablo men, you shall not have the excuse that citizens of this kind will refuse to carry out your wishes.

Come, theu, taxpayers of every description; come property owners, come all others that pay either small or large amounts of reat, for we have but one common interest, and that is that we may strike a well directed blow to extirpate a system that entails upon us corruption, extortion and fraud.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

blow to extirpate a system that cutails upon us corruption, extortion and fraud.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Becoming satisfied that the action of the taxpayers' meeting on Tuesday evening does not come up to the expectations of the people, in refusing to put persons in nomination to fill the position of our municipal representatives, I take the liberty to make a suggestion. Suppose that a few persons from each of the wards meet together to take counsel, that they may select proper candidates for aldermen, school officers, &c., and also to nominate the six councilmen in each Senatorial district. If they will do this and choose men of reliable character, there is no doubt they can be elected. In addition to this, a delegation of six citizens from each of the Council districts can be appointed to form a committee to nominate a suitable man for the important situation of Comptroller. In this way we will be able to redeem the character of our city. Do not let us wait any longer for the different political parties to save us from our enemies. They have been tried and found wanting. I repeat, that the safety of the people depends upon themselves. This is not the time for besidancy or the display of thindity; therefore let us make a determined effort to transact our own business, in dependent of the direction of such as tack the stamins to assume the necessary responsibility.

season. Although on yesterday, as well as on the Saturday previous, the fluvial authorities declared against the ladies, yet they were in no wise deterred from putting in their appearances. As early as twelve o'clock—the per-formance was announced to commence at one—a crowd began to collect about the doors. When, at half-past embarrassment of crinoline riches. have been exceeded at a fifth avenue soirie or a Queen's drawing room. The corridors of the Opera House resembled a field of battle after the fight. Here was found an odd glove, there a sitay overshoe, while in the drawing rooms were certain vessels that had carried away a portion of their standing rigging, hauled mysterlously into occult corners for the rejair of damages. When all was over and the opera commenced, the house presented an array of pretty faces that could hardly be equalled anywhere. The house was literally packed from top to bottom, and hundreds of the fair enthusiants were obliged to remain standing during the performance.

The main attraction of the day was the appearance of Piccolimini in a new role, that of Serpina in Paceticle's operetta "La Serva Padrona." It is a brilliant little sketch, of the old achool, and is only interesting from the prime domais admirable performance of the heroine. Serpina is a servant in the household of an old bachelor, and by a series of coquetries and fuscinating coaps, which any bachelor, young or old, would find it impossible to resist, she secures him as her husband. In this part Piccolomin is piquant, regulsh and coquettish beyond description. Serpina is a soubsette, of course; but Piccolomini makes poetry out of impudence, and gives to sauciness a turn which is irresistibly anusing. The music is not remarkable for brilliancy, and was strengthened by the introduction of a pretty duett from Auber's "Magon" and a walls finale, both within the range of the prima domai's voice, and both admirably executed. The victim of Serpica was interpreted by a new bulls, Signor Maggierochi, a very fair bullo singer, who reminis one of Rovere. The performance was highly enjoyable, and at the end Pacelomini had an enthusiastic call before the curtain.

In "Norma," Mm. Laborde was well received by the sudence. Her execution is as brilliant as ever; but

HER BITTANNE MAJEST'S LEGATION,
WASHINGTON, NOV. 7, 1858.

Size—It was my agreeable duty to submit to her Majesty's government some account of the first establishment of electric communication between Great Britain and the United States, and to remark upon the cordial sentiments which were evinced on that occasion by the monicipality and the inhabitants of the city towards the sovereign and the people of England.

I am now instructed to express to your Honor and to the members of the Common Council the thanks of ber Majesty's government for the part taken at that celebration by the civic authorities in regard to her Majesty's officers, as well as for the generous manifestations of friendly feelings on the part of the citizens towards Great Britain. I have the honor to be, sir, your most obedient humble servant.

The Coffin of Rodgers.

averred to be reasonable." To this the plaintiff demorred, holding that such a regulation could be no defence. The Greuit Court overrules the demurrer, and a writ of error took the case to the Supreme Court, and the Supreme Court unanimously sustained the decision of the Circuit Court, overruling the demurrer. Both courts said the facts stated in the notice were a good and sufficient defence to the plaintiff's action. The judgment below (which was against Day's right to be carried in the cabin) must be atterned, with costs.

ENTERPRISE OF A NEW YORK MERCHANT.—THE Is thoosand dollars ascrificed by one ladies man.—We record with satisfaction an act of notable enterprise on the part of Mr. M. H. LUHTKNSTEIN, No. 38 Broadway. With characteristic prompitities, he sold off, the other day, at audion, his entire stock of ribbons and dress triamings, and without the alightest regard to the pecuniary loss, in order to replease his magasin de modes with entirely new styles just received from Europe, and perfectly be witching in their brilliancy, nevelly and variety. This is the startling manner in which New York aprit manifests twelf teaded the plotdling dulness of other cities. And yet the shrewd lachtenatein, by submitting to this less, has realized an enormous profil. Such a sum in ready cash enabled him to approach effectively importers in distress for funds to meet their obligations, and he bought up all their invokess of choice goods on terms branesselv below cost. He thus furnishes his lady customers with incomparably the freshest and most capitvaling fashious to be found on the American continent, and at prices positively astonishing in their cheapness. In fact, he disposes of the most piquant and novel tyles, now exactly as low as he formerly sold those which had grown autiquated and uninteresting.

Schnapps AT LOW PRICES

WOLFE'S SCHIEDAM AROMATIC SCHNAPPS.
Hotel keepers, barrooms and private families can now apply themselves with Wolfe's Genuine Schiedam Aromatic Schnapps at less price than the common Holland girst a sold of in the market, exclusive of bottles, box and bettling.
The subscriber has now on hand several thousand pipes of Schnapps, which he manufactured and imported during the revulsion of last fall, when he had the selection of the whole grain market of Schledam.
The Schnapps now on hand is represented by the foreman of the distillery to be superior to any Schnapps ever manufactured by ma.

the distillery to be superior to any Schnapps ever manufactured by me.

(From the New York Dispatch.)

(Bood News.—During the revulsion in business last fall, Me. Welfe, the proprietor of the Schledam Aromatic Schnapps, had the selection of the whole grain market of Schledam, a prices which erabled him to manufacture and import several thesand physe many per cent below former rates. He is now offering his importations to both keepers, families, &c., at a leas price than the common Holland gin is sold at in the market. Here is an excellent opportunity afforded to all to large in a superior article of liquer.

Schiedam Schwarzs.—Wolfe, the celebrated proprietor and importer of the gennine Schledam Schnapps, the best gin ever manufactured, by taking advantage of the grain market, during the panie last year, is enabled now to supply dealers and families with the schnapps in all their parity and excellence, at prices less than other dealers supply the ordinary gin. New is the time for those who sell or drink Wolfe's incomparable schnapps to lay in their supplies.

[From the New York Sunday Times.]

The Last Paric.—The truth of the adage, "it's an fil wise that blows no one any good," was made strikingly apparent in the results of the panie of last fall; for not only particular individuals, but the public generally, are even now deriving benefit from it. It enabled those who had the means to secure peculiar advantages, as in the case of Mr. Wolfe, who, during the revulsion, had the selection of the whole grain market of Schedam, and, consequently, was enabled to manufacture and import several thousand pipes of schnapps under such fanorable ctreumstances that the "ill wind" of the panie has cortainly done him some good.

A TALE OF MYSTERY, RUTH AND WROSE.

The author is well known to be no mechanical writer, whe gleans all his knowledge of manners, habits and localities from the works of others. He has made a study of THE RED WARRIONS OF THE FOREST.

He has sat with them around the council fire, has smoked the These of Peace' in the tent of the great Sagamore, and hunted with the young braves over the vast prairies of the West and the Everglades of Florida, when "GHIM VISAGED WAR" had "reared his writhed front" between titles, he has grasped his ritle and tomahawk, to protect the weak and ballie with the atrong.

Like Cooper, Ned Buntline makes his remances valuable to the scholar and sen of tollulic, as works for and to this list of the scholar and sen of tollulic as works for and in this, his last chef d'ouver, he has collected averiety of the lifting details concerning the eventule arreer of JOSEPH BRANDY. the famous "CHIEF OF THE SIX NATIONS," whose away over his great army of Red Warriors was more imposing than that of many a sovereign that has been immortalized on history a pages as a bero!
